The story

Tommaso a very famous cardiologist, atheist and very sure of himself and his convictions. Tommaso is married to Carla, housewife and mother of two children Bianca and Andrea. The story of this family starts when Andrea tells his family that he has something serious to tell them. They thought that he was going to tell them that he is gay, but to the surprise of all of them, he tells them that he wants to become a priest and that finally he found a meaning to his life. Tommaso was convinced that someone has brainwashed his son. He follows Andrea and discovers that he is so much influenced by this priest called Don Pietro. He decides to get to know him and discovers his real story. He didn't know that doing this he will not change his son's life but his.
